Stealing Trick Donkey to Relieve Ennui of Their Work.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Relief from the monotonous grind of stealing money and jewelry was sought by robbers early today when, after ransacking the home of A. Carr in Englewood, they went to the barn, led out a trick donkey and placing it in the tonneau of a big automobile, sped away. This was but one of a dozen robberies that took place during the night and early morning and caused the police to shake their heads mournfully over what they called an "out of the season crime wave." They pointed out that real activity in the criminal world was not due for another month.

Upon the north side Mr. and Mrs. Moritz Weickert were attacked by automobile bandits near the Weickert residence. One of the thugs attempted to chloroform Mrs. Weickert while a second held a revolver at her husband's head. An approaching street car frightened the bandits, who escaped. This affair took place in the same neighborhood where Mrs. Edmund Kauffman was killed in a similar hold-up early this year.

Four highwaymen rode around the west side in a large red racing car. After robbing Roy Harlan of $200 and jewelry on West Jackson boulevard one of the robbers said, "Now yell your head off and relieve your feelings. We can beat anything on wheels in this town."

E. G. Minnick of Galesburg, Ill., was held up and robbed of $50 at Thirty-first street and Cottage Grove avenue by two women armed with revolvers. Minnick said he thought at first the young women were trying to flirt with him.

Robbers who held up Samuel Rubin near his home on the south side, took $1 from him and missed $600 in bills which Rubin was carrying in a vest pocket.

ASKS THAT HILLES
EXPLAIN CHARGESGeorge W. Perkins Asks That Republican Chairman Explain Statements To Senate Committee.BORDER AMERICANS
MENACED BY REBELS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Sept. 24.—Senator Clapp has received a letter from George W. Perkins explaining that Charles D. Hilles, chairman of the republican committee investigating campaign expenditures to "testify fully as to his charge that Col. Roosevelt had spent millions of dollars of Harvester Trust money." Senator Clapp today stated that Mr. Hilles undoubtedly would be called before the committee, but would be questioned not alone upon that reported statement, but upon the general subject of campaign contributions.

Washington, Sept. 24.—A plan for the opening of next week's hearings was outlined today by Senator Clapp for presentation to the full committee when it meets. The first witness probably will be Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., and the second C. C. Tegethoff, private secretary to Governor Edward H. Harriman. The two men will be called upon to produce any papers belonging to the estates respectively of Cornelius N. Bliss and M. Harriman that might throw light on the charges made by John D. Archbold that the Standard Oil Company had been asked to contribute to the Roosevelt fund in 1904.

GENERAL STEEVER NOTIFIES WAR DEPARTMENT THAT EFFECT—CITY OF BOQUILLAS SACKED.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24.—General Steever notified the war department today that the American side of the border was threatened by an attack of rebels at Boquillas, Mexico. The town has been sacked. General Steever has directed Major Cameron to prevent depredation in the Big Bend district. Gen. Pasquel Orozco continues to elude his pursuers and is reported to be in the vicinity of Gen. Trevina's ranch, 110 miles southwest of Del Rio with one thousand men. It is thought he may be advancing on Piedras Negras. Gen. Steever reports he has a continuous patrol from the southwest corner of New Mexico to a point thirty miles below Ojinaga, and has other troops at Del Rio and Eagle Pass.

Rebel Leader Wounded.

The rebel leader Marcelo Canavio was wounded in last week's battle with a small federal force in a canyon of Larosita Pass, south of Musque Coahuila, according to a report made to Gen. Trevina by Major Miguel Villareal, whose forces were ambushed by the rebels and routed with a loss of ten killed. It is thought certain that Gen. Pasquel Orozco is near Musque, but military men here express the belief he will try to enter the state of Tamaulipas where numerous minor disorders recently have been reported. It is said the government would find it an easy matter, however, to throw a large force of troops into Tamaulipas.

ROOSEVELT'S PLANS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chandler, Okla., Sept. 24.—With his arrival in Oklahoma today, Colonel Roosevelt began the last stage of his stumping tour which he will take through the south and southeastern states. Colonel Roosevelt spent two hours in Chandler and made a speech before starting for Oklahoma City, where he will remain until he leaves for Arkansas.

The colonel will not arrive in New York until later than he planned. He had word today that instead of going into New York from North Carolina where he was expected on Tuesday arrangements had been made for a trip to Tennessee and with addresses at Chattanooga and Knoxville.

He will reach New York on Wednesday. Plans for the rest of his campaign have been mapped out tentatively.

The colonel will remain at home from Wednesday of next week until the following Monday when he will go to Washington to testify before the senate committee which is investigating campaign expenditures.

After the campaign in Tennessee the colonel will go into the Middle West states of Ohio, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin and on his way back will probably spend two days in Pennsylvania. After a brief rest he will go to the New England states for a week. The closing of his campaign will be spent in New York state.

POPULAR FAVOR TOO

Win Favor.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Sept. 24.—"One of the troubles of our government is that congress and public men are prone to do things which attract most easily and favorably—in short to headline the attention of the general public," declared President Taft addressing today the American Association of Commercial executives in convention here.

Mr. Taft received the delegates at the White House just before leaving for New York. "It's pretty hard to get the people to pay attention to the banking system, but it must be solved. I think all the money we have ought to be in circulation in a system which invites it and doesn't drive it into stockpiles and safety deposit vaults where no one is going to let it out," said Mr. Taft. Mr. Taft also discussed the budget system of government finance which he favors, but which congress at its last session declined to adopt.

CITIZENSHIP CASES
ARE FINISHED TODAYNearly One Hundred Applicants Are Given Second Papers—Several Cases Dismissed or Held Over.

Hearings of citizenship cases were completed before Judge Grimm at the special September term of the circuit court today. A total of nearly one hundred applicants were given full rights of United States citizens during the two days of examination. Only a few applicants were dismissed and six or eight were held over until a later date for various reasons the principal one being that witnesses were absent or unable to attend.

Peter J. Mout and William McVicar were among the men granted their second papers today. Both are prominent Janesville men and had supposed that they had full citizenship rights until they were informed of the recent naturalization act. Allie Razook was another well known Janesville man admitted today.

Most of the applicants today were from Janesville city and the northern part of the county. In addition to the names given yesterday the following have been admitted:

Anton Rokusok and Halver C. Staven, Orfordville; Tobias A. Steenburgh, Daniel Conway, Herman Pomeroy, Fred Perlick, August Shutt, Fred Nichteig, Frank R. Schultz, Ole A. Christensen, Albert Schultz, and Frederick J. Henke, all of the town of Center; Emil E. Himmerlich, La Prairie; Peter Mork, Rock; August F. Behling, Plymouth; Anton Cole, Magnolia; William R. Gundlock, Evansville; Benjamin W. Towns, Porter; Victor Bjorklund, Johnston; Herman Shmading Johstow; Joseph Schindler, Janesville; Herman Ziereth, Janesville; Paul Wolfgang, Janesville; Nathan Seitzer, Janesville; George W. Homsey, Elias Ruzook, August John, George Gunniss, John Henry Bailey, Charles Struntz, William Wobis, Joseph Hudson, Julius Willing, John A. Raubacher, and Charles F. Rauch, all of Janesville; August Albrecht, Footville; Lenert Vogel, Harmony; Christian H. Westendorf, Plymouth; John Waldman, Harmony; William Denison, Evansville; Benjamin Peach, Edgerton; James R. Beaton and James Beaton, both of Johnston; Herman Plawke, Avelon; Charles Hackbarr, Milton; Julius Jansen, Center; Mathias Johnson, Janesville; and Erik K. Birklund, town of Janesville.

Marriage Licenses: Marriage licenses were issued at the office of the county clerk today to Carl O. Otto of Janesville, and Helga Hanson of Edgerton; and to Lodiencia Vito and Paul Romata, both of Deloit.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Badenweiler, Baden, Germany, Sept. 24.—Germany's most brilliant diplomat, Baron Adolph Von Bieberstein, died here today, after a short illness. The baron occupied the position of German ambassador in London only since May this year and had come here to take a course of alkaline water treatment. He suddenly fell ill and rapidly became worse, and he died today. The baron, who suffered from an attack of pneumonia earlier in the year and his illness was attributed to the effect of the sickness and his strenuous life, was born in Baden, was seventy years old.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Juan Irias, the former Zelayaist, who recently circulated a petition in San Jose, Costa Rica, calling for the withdrawal of American forces from Nicaragua, has gone to Nicaragua to command the rebel forces there. This advice was received at the state department today. Gen. Mena in ill health is said to be about to retire from the leadership of the uprising.

DEEP WATERWAY PROMOTERS
CONVENTION IN LITTLE ROCK.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Little Rock, Ark., Sept. 24.—The seventh annual convention of the National Deep Waterways Association, organized to promote the building of an inland ship waterway from the Great Lakes through the Mississippi river to the Gulf of Mexico, opened in this city today for a three days' session. Delegates including governors, members of Congress, mayors of cities, engineers and prominent men from all sections of the country are present. Colonel Theodore Roosevelt has accepted an invitation to address the convention tomorrow. On Thursday the delegates will be entertained at a monster Southern barbecue.

IOWA MUNICIPAL LEAGUE
CONVENTION IS OPENED.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Sioux City, Ia., Sept. 24.—Many of the principal cities of the state were represented by their mayors or other officials at the opening here today of the annual meeting of the Iowa League of Municipalities. Mayor Smith of Sioux City delivered an address of welcome. Response for the visitors was incorporated in the annual address of the president, Alfred C. Mueller, mayor of Davenport. The meeting will conclude Thursday.

Boulevard in One Day by Public-spirited Citizens.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Appleton, Wis., Sept. 24.—A fine road was built last week leading into Clintonville from the west, the work being done in one day. A movement was started by some citizen who asked the assistance of the people of Clintonville, and many responded. Some contributed money to purchase machinery, others furnished teams, and still others assisted in the shoveling. In one day 296 wagon loads of gravel was hauled and placed on the road, the road levelled and raked, and before dark one of the worst roads in the county was turned into one of the best.

WANT MORE FEDERAL AID
IN ERECTION OF LEVEES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 24.—A campaign aimed at obtaining more liberal federal contributions for the construction of levees was inaugurated by delegates of the Interstate Levee association which began a three days' session here today. Those owning property affected by the overflow of the Mississippi river and the state levee board officials took part in the discussion. Colonel Roosevelt will address the convention on Thursday.

Neenah, Wis., Sept. 24.—Struck in the stomach by a board which flew from a machine on which he was working in a factory, Ernest Johnson, a young man, was so badly injured that he lies in a local hospital in a precarious condition and a fatal termination of the accident is feared.

LA FOLLETTE HOLDS
THE WHIP HAND IN
COMMITTEE ACTIONHandles the State Central Committee
In His Interests Against McGovern's Wishes.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 24.—Senator La Follette has again demonstrated that he absolutely controls the republican party in Wisconsin. Once more Governor McGovern has felt the whip and heard the snap of the orders of the little "boss" of the progressives. It is no more a question as to La Follette's victory at Madison a week ago, they are convinced now that the Senator controls the situation with a firm hand and that the new state central committee will do his bidding.

The new state central committee met last evening at the Plankinton house and proceeded to organize. Governor McGovern asked that T. J. Maion of Elmd, be elected secretary in place of William Bessey, by a vote of nine to seven it was decided to put this important election over for ten days meanwhile E. F. Dittmar of Baraboo was delegated to perform the duties of the office.

On the surface the delay was to permit a consultation with other candidates and committee men not present last night but deep down it is understood La Follette has not yet decided who is to have the job. The Governor and his friends, to put it mildly are not pleased. In the past it has been customary for the candidate for governor to name his own committee men, chairman and secretary. This year the committee men are named by La Follette and the chairman and secretary will likewise be similarly designated.

What effect this may have upon McGovern and his attitude toward the Bull Mooseers is problematic. Should he decide to cast his lot with them it is safe to say that the La Follette state central committee would not promptly and replace his name at the head of the republican column with that of another, a true loyal La Follette henchman. It is perhaps the fear that is keeping the Governor from making any statement. It is certain he promised the Bull Moose leaders his support but just now he fears for himself.

Another important action of the committee last night was the filling of the vacancies on the republican electors. Sol Levitan of Madison takes Col. Hicks' place and with Aaron Brayton of La Crosse, are delegates at large. Dr. M. V. Dewire succeeded C. C. Gittings of Racine in the first district and George Weatherbee of Eau Claire took the place of E. C. Anderson of Menomonie in the ninth. No steps were taken to fill the vacancy in the tenth district. It was intimated by members of the committee that the electors were all expected to vote for Taft, should he receive the Wisconsin electoral vote.

The electors as they now stand are as follows:

Electors at Large.
Sol Levitan, Madison.
Aaron M. Brayton, La Crosse.
District Delegates.
First—Dr. M. V. Dewire, Racine.
Second—Ray C. Twining, Waterloo.
Third—Dwight T. Parker, Pennings.
Fourth—Adolph J. Weidner, Milwaukee.
Fifth—Clem P. Host, Milwaukee.
Sixth—Otto Zander, Brillion.
Seventh—Charles A. Leight, New Lisbon.
Eighth—Albert L. Fontaine, Grand Rapids.
Ninth—George Weatherbee, Eau Claire.
Eleventh—Theodore M. Thomas, Ladysmith.

The question is are they pledged for Taft or will they follow their own dictates. It is not for Taft their own dictates. It is not for Taft their own dictates. It is not for Taft their own dictates. Just what form this will take, it is not known. However as La Follette has announced he is within the republican ranks it is probable to retain his regularity, with a hope of republican preferment four years from now, he will see to it the electors are regular in their ballot on president.

mains Unsettled With No Move Toward Arbitration.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Bingham, Utah, Sept. 24.—At the beginning of the second week of the Bingham copper strike no definite move had been made by either the operators or the strikers to force the issue. There are efforts being made to obtain through Governor Spry a conference with D. C. Jackling, general manager of the Utah Copper company. Secretary E. G. Locke of the local miners' union, announced this morning that applications for membership to the union were being received and since the opening of the strike were nearly a thousand. The applicants include, says Mr. Locke, practically all of the non-union miners in Bingham. Many laborers with families are leaving Bingham. Trains leaving this city are being crowded with those departing for other camps.

TRAGEDY IS OBSERVED

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Neenah, Wis., Sept. 24.—Today marks the first anniversary of the terrible tragedy in which fourteen young people were killed and several injured when a lay rack was struck by a Chicago & Northwestern passenger train on a grade crossing. All of the young people were residents of Menasha and today special mass is being held in St. John's church for the victims. It is also a noteworthy fact that several other dangerous grade crossings which the railway commission advised being eliminated are still being used for traffic because the city council has not taken any effective action in the matter.

Wilson's Plans.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 24.—Governor Wilson's hold in his party in New Jersey will be tested in today's primary contest for the democratic nomination for United States senator to succeed Frank O. Briggs, republican, whose term expires next March.

The governor's choice, Congressman William Hughes of Patterson, is opposed by former Senator James Smith, Jr., of Newark, whose candidacy for the office met defeat less than two years ago because of Governor Wilson's opposition. This year Governor Wilson has opposed Mr. Smith in speeches and in statements addressed to the democratic voters.

JUDGE JOHN C. KAREL
TO BE AT FESTIVAL
AT MILTON JUNCTIONCandidate For Governor to Deliver an Address at Milton Junction
Home-Coming Tomorrow.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Milton Junction, Sept. 24.—Judge John C. Karel of Milwaukee, candidate for governor, will deliver an address here tomorrow noon at the big day of the Milton Junction Home-Coming and Fall festival. The celebration opened today. Governor McGovern was to have delivered an address here today, but was unable to come because of the meeting of the state central committee. Mr. Thomas of Elgin, was sent to speak in place of the governor.

The feature of today's entertainment was the pony parade this morning, in which a number of finely-decorated carriages drawn by ponies were entered. Among the entrants was a rig from Janesville driven by William P. Mason.

This afternoon, there was a ball game and foot races and other sports. A large number of exhibits of Janey work have been entered in the exhibit in the Hayes building, and the judges are at work picking the winners. Over a thousand people were here for the celebration today.

In the award of prizes for horses, Bert Austin of Johnston won first prize and Lee Bassett of Koshkonong second prize for heavy draft teams. For single drivers, S. C. Chambers of Milton Junction was awarded first prize and W. B. Paul second. The ponies were divided into two classes: the large ponies and Shetland ponies. In the former, first prize was awarded to Stella Yale, and second to Paul Olsen. In the Shetland pony class, Wayland Coon received first award and Ruth Taylor, second. Milton Junction won a match game of quoits with Milton.

NOW THE NEW SEASON
BRINGS A HUNDRED
NEW DESIRES

By J. R. HAMILTON

Former Advertising Manager of Wana-namaker's, Philadelphia.

The Summer is over and Autumn has come to every City in the land. Even those cities that lay for a week in sweltering heat have found cool breezes at last. You are going to have to spend a great deal of money now. From your hats to your shoes you will have to replenish again. Some of you will come out of this shopping tornado looking as spick and span and as new as if you had been born again. Others will look as dowdy as if they had never bought new things, but had struggled along on last year's worn out clothes.

It all depends on how and where you spend your money during the next few weeks.

There are shoes to be bought, but there are all kinds of shoes being sold—and all kinds of people being sold, when shoes are sold. There are suits and dresses to be had. There are evening gowns, and hats, and everything to make a woman beautiful—or unbecomingly—depending entirely upon where and how she makes her choice.

There are many homes to be refurnished, too, and these also will look happy or unhappy accordingly as you choose. A piano can be a public nuisance or a joy for life. Your furniture can be a comfortable friend, or a broken beggar always in your way.

The only difference is in learning how to buy. And the quickest way for a person to learn how to buy is simply to study the advertising day by day. You will find as you read this advertising that you will very quickly be able to read the man behind the advertising. A man cannot publish a part of himself every day and not be found out if he is not right.

That is why the man who does not advertise is a dangerous fellow to deal with. He has made no promises and no pledges. He does not stand for anything. He may be right but he has not gone on record to that effect.

The advertising in this paper day by day will give you the news of what to buy and where to go. It will help you with your styles and your pocketbook. And above all, it will give you every merchant's guarantee of good faith in all of his dealings with you.

That is the greatest thing about advertising. It always raises the business morals of men. So use this paper absolutely today for your shopping guide, as well as for the other features it contains.

DESCRIBES HISTORIC SETTLEMENTS ALONG NEW ENGLAND COAST

Janesville Woman Writes of Alive And Growing and Quaint and Decaying New England Cities.

Vivid impressions of the alive and thrifty cities of Massachusetts, descriptions of pioneer burial grounds, and quaint old settlements gradually dying as the stream of trade and commerce is diverted from their doors are given in the following letter of a Janesville woman who has been traveling leisurely through New England this summer. The writer is a close observer, appreciative of the excellence in the new order of things, as well as of the historical human interest in the old. Her letter is well worth perusal:

So many beautiful trolley rides around Boston, Lynn, the great shoe town with a population of 89,000 has been a dry city for several years. The law never allows only one saloon to 1000 inhabitants. There are one hundred shoe firms there employing from three to six hundred men. The Lynn branch of the General Electric company has ten thousand names on its pay roll.

Great work is being done by the Humane society; the laws are strictly enforced and work horses are in fine condition. In the hot weather men were stationed at the hydrants all over the city with hose to wash off the hot tired horses. A lame horse is rarely seen on the streets in the cities around here. Its owner at first offense would be let off with a fine; for the next imprisonment would be the penalty. They are also compelled to keep their wagons fed.

Cape Cod with its quaint old towns of great interest. One old sea captain remarked "was a fine place to emigrate from." The charm of a small farm on New England coast is its orchards which this year are loaded with the most luscious peaches and apples and has a beauty beyond description. Flowers bloom in profusion everywhere. Nearness to the salt water it is claimed has much to do with their beauty.

The burying grounds—many of them are two centuries old. The pioneers of the days of Queen Ann and the Georges, rest here under dark slate stones with dreadful effigies. In the old graveyard opposite Harvard college (the west entrance) the epitaphs were mostly Latin as was nearly all else around, even the poison cards on the trees. It is in these localities where if one's early education was not along those lines you pose as a cheerful idiot. We found a few we could read (which did not materially add to our comfort). ran like this, "Here I must lie till the last day—Oh then the stone will roll away." And still remember in a short space "You too will run the self same race." Another long one ended thus: "Sine I a sinner found thy door I'll stand and call ten thousand more." She had her limit.

These places along the coast tell a sad story many of the old slabs have "Lost at sea" and one I noticed had three generations meet their death by sea. At old Marblehead burying ground (as they called it here) is a monument erected to 65 men who lost their lives in a gale of September 1846, when 43 wives were made widows.

In this quaint old town with its narrow byways—its legends where fifty years ago the harbor was filled with fishing vessels, the neck of Marblehead used then only for drying fish—now is covered with the beautiful summer homes of millionaires, the land near valueless then, almost priceless now. Not one vessel comes in its harbor now. Two of the wealthiest yacht clubs have clubhouses. The harbor is filled with pleasure craft. At Provincetown, about one month since the last fishing boat was dismantled to be used as a coal barge. The old historic landmarks dear to every New Englander, are fast disappearing and many old stories were loved to be connected with them are being exploded.

The General Lee mansion now owned by the Historical Society is in a good state of preservation. Built in 1768 it has the same decorations on the walls, furniture of the olden time and tapestries. The windows were made to lift by weights, but having none it is said they had been used for bullets in the war of the Revolution. The slave quarters, a secret passage was also found, the immense kitchen with old high fire places with crane hung with kettles a curious little iron chaffing dish were among the articles noticed. The old knockers with their bright polished faces mounted on sombre doorways stand like forgotten sentinels in an environment, which witnessed many of the closing scenes of our people's struggle for liberty and used to announce such men as Washington over one hundred years ago.

Gloucester clambakes are justly celebrated in song and story. What did seem strange was that there never can be used twice the same stories for a "bake". John Hays Hammond has a fine estate here and it is claimed has the highest aerials in the country. Botany lovers would do much to interest them in the glass flowers in the museum of Harvard. Over 2000 specimens, the work of the German naturalists Rudolph and Herman Baschle and presented by Mrs. Charles Ware and Mary Ware as a memorial to Charles E. Ware. Several days could be spent at this building with profit, as there is much to interest one.

In this day and generation little is known of the households in which the country's famous men spent their days in planning events which made our Republic—like all historic places, these will eventually undergo changes and decay—and the facts that are known to some of the old inhabitants will be distorted in the narratives of their descendants and the listener will regard them as traditional.

JANESVILLE PLOWS TAKE HIGH HONORS AT WHEATLAND, ILL.

William Fairweather Drives Janesville Plows in World Championship Event—Win Ten Out of Fourteen Prizes.

Ten out of a possible fourteen prizes, including first in the sweepstakes and first and second in the post-graduate class, went to plows of the Janesville Machine company in the annual plowing contest held at Wheatland, Ill., yesterday.

There were nineteen entries in four events, and the Janesville plows were matched against seven entries of competitors' plows. The world championship honors went for the sixth successive time to William Fairweather of Wheatland, the greatest living plowman in America today. Driving a Janesville sulky plow he won the sweepstakes and first honors in the post-graduate class. In addition the Janesville plows took the following honors:

Second, post-graduate class; first, third, fourth and fifth out of five prizes in the prize-winners' class; first, third and fourth out of four possible prizes in the men's class.

The contests, especially in the sweepstakes event, were exceedingly close. The matches began at nine o'clock in the morning, and were finished shortly after noon, but the final decisions of the judges were not given until nearly five o'clock. Nearly 10,000 persons witnessed the match which was held on what is known as the Wolf farm, seven miles from Aurora, Ill. Five hundred autos brought spectators from Aurora, Joliet, and other cities in the heart of the banner farming section.

The Wheatland plowing match was started in 1878, by "Uncle" Jimmy Patterson of Wheatland and has been continued annually with increasing importance and interest. It is open to any plowman or make of plows in the United States. Its purpose is the promotion of a better standard of plowing and arousing interest in better methods of agriculture. All of the principal plow manufacturers of the country contend at the match and the honors won by the Janesville plows indicate their unusual quality and perfection.

The prizes offered in the various events are: Sweepstakes, gold medal; post-graduate, gold medal; prize-winners, $20 and a silver cup; boys' riding plow class, walking plow; boys' class under 15 years, $15; traction plow class, silver cup.

In addition to the plowing contest the women of the neighborhood compete for prizes for the best cakes, pumpkin pies, jellies, and other culinary products as well as fancy needle work. These blue ribbon articles are then sold to the highest bidder and very flattering prizes are paid for the prize-winning cakes. One cake brought $39 and a luscious golden pumpkin pie sold for nearly half that amount.

It is distinctly a countryside event and an occasion for a general homecoming. Politicians flock to greet their constituents and all enjoy the day as a delightful picnic. The ladies serve a chicken pie dinner and the board is loaded with quantities of good things.

Next Saturday, Sept. 28, a similar plowing match will be held at Big Rock, Ill., just west of Aurora, and a number of contestants in the Wheatland events will go over to compete with their old-time rivals. The Big Rock match will be of unusual interest this year on account of the close decisions at Wheatland and Janesville plows will again be subjected to the closest competitive tests.

H. M. Craig and A. Krotz of the Janesville Machine company, witnessed the match yesterday, returning late last night.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

"Yes, I know," said a First Ward lady, "women run around to Chicago, Milwaukee, Rockford, or Madison for wearing apparel, hats, shoes, etc., but I cannot see that they look one whit better than I do and I know that very often they pay more for things." Some do not even take the trouble to see the beautiful things shown by the home stores. And another thing the husbands of these same women make their money in Janesville. Good way to build up a town. Old man, wake up, give the family a few lessons in loyalty.

See If Your Child's Tongue Is Coated

If Cross, Feverish, Bilious Give Delicious "Syrup of Figs" to Cleanse It's Little Bowels.

Look at the tongue. Mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's insides, the stomach, liver and 30 feet of bowels are clogged up with purifying waste matter and need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When your child is listless, drooping, pale, doesn't sleep soundly or eat heartily or is cross, irritable, feverish; stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, or is full of cold, give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move out and out of its little bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you surely will have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious taste.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed. A little given to-day will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

EDWARD FORD DIES AT HOME IN PORTER

Resident of County for Half a Century Passes Away After Stroke of Paralysis.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Porter, Sept. 24.—Edward Ford, for over half a century a resident of the town of Porter, died at his home here yesterday afternoon at five o'clock. The deceased was born in Kilkenny, Ireland, October 2, 1834, and came to this country at the age of about four years. His parents settled near Milwaukee and he remained with them until he was 18 years old, when he came to Rock county and settled. He has since resided here.

Mr. Ford had been ill for the past seven weeks with paralysis, and his death was hastened by the death of his wife about three weeks ago. He was married in 1871 to Mary Smith and nine children were born to them, of whom six are now living. They are: Margaret, Edward and John Ford of Porter, Mrs. Edward Fox of Leyden, Mrs. Lawrence Barrett of Center, and Mrs. Jud McCarthy of Cook. The funeral will be held Wednesday morning at ten o'clock from St. Michael's church in Porter. The deceased was a man highly respected in the community, and was held high in the esteem of all for his sterling qualities. He was a kind and loving husband and father, and a true friend and neighbor.

Ralph Rose, who has himself been called a perfect specimen of physical manhood, describes Nicklander, the great Finn shot-putter, as the best built man in the world, and a comer with the weights. The Finn stands 6 feet 4 inches, 48 chest and weighs 265 pounds. His waist measures 36 inches. Nicklander gave both Rose and McDonald, the American competitors in the Olympic games at Stockholm, the fight of their lives in the two-handed shot-put, and it was only by inches that McDonald took second place from the Finn.

"President Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox has found the best training camp for a major league baseball club in California, if he has completed arrangements to make Paso Rubles his club's headquarters next spring."

This is the opinion of Manager Harry Wolverton of the New York Highlanders, who was formerly leader of the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast league. The Highlanders will not train in California, as President Farrell of that club intends eliminating such a long journey from the team's schedule.

Fans in Major league cities complain of tactics on the part of managers which they assert cheapen baseball. Their complaint arises from the fact that raw material from the minors is being tried out daily on the big teams. Not less than 175 players have been gathered in by the scouts and tipsters, and are being given a trial. Fans object to paying first-class prices for the opportunity of seeing second or third-class ball. Managers and owners do not seem to see that by pursuing their present course they will work injury to the national game and also to themselves.

Fighters who have won success are generally ungrateful. The latest example of this is Buck Crouse, the Pittsburgh middleweight. A few weeks ago Crouse packed up and went to Australia, leaving his manager, Jimmy Mason, behind. Mason was the man who took Crouse when he was raw and made a pretty successful fighter of him. Crouse should have felt very grateful toward Mason, who had done everything in the world to further the interests of the rising young middleweight.

Managers will learn some day that fighters are not of the appreciative sort. Jack Johnson gave Sam Fitzpatrick a fine roughing after winning the championship from Burns. Abe Attell is never satisfied with any manager. And these are just two cases out of many.

"The Boston Red Sox should win the world's championship of 1912 with as much ease as we captured it in 1911," says Connie Mack of the Athletics. "Some people seem to be under the impression that the Boston team is liable to waver when the big games are staged. But there is not a cub or a youngster in the line up. All are tried and true and will go through the series without a quiver."

PATHFINDER CAR OF BOOSTER RUN HERE

Beloit Merchants and Business Men Combine in Effort to Promote Good Roads.

Janesville was visited this morning by the Pathfinder car of the Beloit Boosters' Run which leaves the Line City Tour of southern Wisconsin in mile interests of good roads. C. S. Gibson was at the wheel of the car and W. A. Rossow of the Warner Instrument company, D. B. Worthington of the Daily News and H. L. Rood of the Free Press. The run from Beloit to Janesville was made in 33 minutes and after a brief stop at the Gazette office the party left for Watertown by the noon control of the run, going by way of Milton Junction, Fort Atkinson, Jefferson, and Johnson's Creek. This afternoon they will proceed to Milwaukee via Oconomowoc, Nashotah, Hartland, Pewaukee, Waukesha. Tomorrow they will go from Milwaukee to Racine and Kenosha then to Burlington, Lake Geneva, Elkhorn, Delavan, Darien, Clinton and Beloit. This will be the route followed next week when it is anticipated fifty autos with two hundred passengers will take part. There are to be two male quartettes on board and perhaps a full band. While good roads is the object of the trip there will be considerable boosting for Beloit done along the route.

Fights Scheduled for Tonight.

THE MISSOURI GIRL

The Missouri Girl, which will be the offering at Myers theatre, Sunday Sept. 29, matinee and evening has been on the road continuously for fifteen years and for the past six years two companies have been presenting every state and territory in the Union, with possibly two exceptions, and last season one company toured Canada, where the play met with the same remarkable reception that has characterized its tours of the United States. The popularity of the play is not limited to any particular section. Wherever it goes it is the same story. Crowded houses and delighted audiences.

Other plays that have been before the public deteriorate and frequently managers and inferior companies on the public with low salaries and actors in the principal roles. Fred Raymond has always kept his companies up to standard and that is probably the reason for his remarkable success with this sterling comedy.

Year after year the companies visit the various cities fortunate enough to be on their routes and invariably the companies are equal to those of previous years and from time to time improvements are being made that strengthen the organization. This season the vaudeville portion of the show has received Mr. Raymond's careful attention, and the country "birthday party" offers an opportunity for specialties that has been taken advantage of. Five first-class vaudeville numbers add great strength to the performance.

OFFICER 666

The most irresistible "peeler" that ever swung a night stick, in a better detective play than ever came out of France, is "Officer 666," a play that has scored the most definite success both in New York and Chicago, recorded on the theatrical record for years.

Everyone to whom the show world appeals will want to see this splendid play which Cohen and Harris announce for local production at the Myers theatre, Tuesday, Oct. 8.

"Officer 666" is a sort of prophetic, good in a dramatic way, for that tired feeling.

"Officer 666" is a melodramatic farce, stagy fun with a word lot of laughs and thrills that is shot out with a rapidity of a Hotchkiss field piece storming an enemy's entrenchment. And the audiences that it attracts! My goodness, how they enjoy it! The stout ones chortle over the swift fun or gasp at the thrill punctuations. The matinee girls are intensely interested in the handsome picture puffer, who, they hope, will get away with the swag, and when that prince of scamps is caught vote him the dearest villain that ever had his thumb prints photographed.

DON'T LIE TO YOUR WIFE

"Don't Lie to Your Wife" the musical comedy scream with Dave Lewis starred, which will be seen at Myers theatre Friday Sept. 27, is in three acts and is by far the funniest vehicle Dave Lewis has ever been connected with.

It is up to the minute in every particular and contains many extremely ludicrous situations.

The complications which have been gathered up by the author, Campbell B. Casad, during his experience as a Journalist on the New York Herald are alike numerous and humorous, and the different characters embodied in this farcical mixup, seem so terribly enmeshed that the spectator simply wonders how the poor unfortunate will ever extricate himself, and it is only a moment prior to the fall of the curtain ere the tangled web is much to the satisfaction of everybody. Musical numbers are introduced, violin specialties are rendered, and the gowning of the ladies is said to be simply exquisite.

HUGH STOCKMAN RETURNS AFTER A LONG ABSENCE

Sentenced to Ten Days in Jail This Morning After Pleading Guilty To Being Intoxicated.

Hugh Stockman, who has kept out of the municipal court ever since last March, re-appeared there this morning charged with the usual offense of being found intoxicated. On his plea of guilty he was sentenced to pay a fine of $4 and costs or go to jail for a ten days' sojourn. He was not able to pay. Hugh told the Judge that he had been working in the country all summer.

Frank Hyatt, a man who but recently came to Janesville, was arrested for a similar offense and acknowledged his guilt. He was given a sentence of $3 and costs or six days in jail, accepting the latter alternative.

FALL WORK AT THE "Y" IS COMMENCED

Gymnasium Classes Are Being Organized And Plans Are Being Discussed For Basketball Season.

Fall and winter work in the gymnasium at the Young Men's Christian association commenced yesterday with the first meeting of the A Junior class after school at four o'clock. This afternoon the Sub-Junior classes will begin, and tomorrow the B Juniors meet for the first time this season. The attendance yesterday was good and the prospects are that a large number of the younger members will be enrolled, a greater number in fact than last year. On next Monday evening the Senior classes will open the fall work in the gymnasium and the Intermediates on Tuesday evening. The schedule of classes, as arranged by Physical Director Terrence Hartwell is as follows:

A Juniors: Monday and Thursday afternoon at four o'clock.

Sub-Juniors: Tuesday, Friday and Saturday afternoons.

B Juniors: Wednesday afternoon at four and Saturday morning at ten.

Seniors: Monday, Thursday and Saturday evening at eight o'clock.

Intermediates: Tuesday and Friday nights at eight o'clock.

Basketball practice for the coming season will soon be commenced at the association building. Aside from the class teams which will probably be organized, there seems to be plenty of good material for a first class association team to play games with other associations in nearby cities.

AFTON

Afton, Sept. 23.—Mrs. Nowel Oakley and daughter Vivian of Milton, Ill., are staying with Mrs. T. J. Oakley until Miss Maggie Oakley returns from her visit.

SATURDAY WILL BE LAST CHANCE

Exceptional Offer Made by The Gazette Ends Saturday, Another Rare Opportunity.

There are all kinds of dictionaries, just as there are all kinds of eggs, but there is only one kind that you want. If you wish to take advantage of The Gazette's dictionary distribution you will have to hurry. No books will be presented after Saturday night. They can then be bought at the stores for $1 each. In order that you may not "get left," you need only clip one coupon, which, with the small expense bonus, will get for you this wonderful dictionary.

Call your stenographer anything you want to, but do not call her down. That is, if you wish to retain her services.

It is safe to say that she is one of the 10,000 "knights and ladies of the typed keys" who have rebelled against the method of reprinting frequently practiced by employers and have adopted the effective method offered by The Gazette of ending it.

"Insurance against ridicule" and "job insurance" now have been combined with "insurance against reprinting" and all three of these new policies of progress have been connected with the Peerless Error Eliminator which The Gazette is distributing.

If you do not understand what all this is about, read the coupon printed upon another page or better still, get that dictionary you have seen advertised which is now open to all our readers as the New Websterian 1912 Dictionary, Illustrated.

Insure your job.

Insure your happiness.

Insure your understanding.

Insure your employment and appreciation of the passing show of life.

Get the dictionary that is more than a dictionary. Get it for only one coupon, as explained.

This dictionary is NOT published by the original publishers of Webster's Dictionary or by their successors.

LOCAL GIRL SCOUTS HOLD FIRST MEETING

Initial Gathering of Season Called at Library Yesterday—New Officers Elected.

Girl Scouts of Janesville held their first meeting of the season at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Library hall. Plans for the winter's work and future meetings were outlined and discussed, but nothing definite was decided upon. Miss Johanna Hanson was elected patrol leader, and Miss Jessie McGregor, secretary. The next meeting will be held at the same hour on Monday, September 30, and it is hoped that there will be a full attendance of all members as well as applicants for membership.

The local Girl Scouts were organized a year ago by Miss Lydia Kinsley, until recently librarian at the public library. Fifteen members were enrolled. At the request of the Scouts, Miss Isabel Smith has assumed the position of supervisor. The organization, however, is self-governing, conducts its own meetings, and elects its own officers. It is affiliated with the national Girl Scout society which has its headquarters at Des Moines, Iowa. Clara Adella Lester-Lane is Chief Scout.

CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS.
The corrupt practice act, which resulted from a spasm of virtue on the part of busy reformers, is playing havoc with party managers, and the treasurers of national parties are finding it difficult to finance their campaign.

There is no more corruption about legitimate party expenses, than there is about church expenses. The day has passed when votes are bought for money, and the censorship which now prevails is on a par with much of the regulation which has become a fad.

Charles D. Hilles, chairman of the republican national committee, recently wrote a letter to the editor of the New York Times, on the fallacies of the law, and in pointing out some of its inconsistencies, said:

"The support of The Chicago Tribune, for instance, to the candidacy of the third term candidate has been worth not ten, but hundreds of thousands of dollars. It has been going on for many months. The same is true of The New York World's support of the democratic candidate, and of the support of the other democratic papers. Does any one imagine that George W. Perkins put his money into The Evening Mail as an investment? Or was it to acquire the support of that paper for his candidate for president? And yet, no accounting of such contributions will have to be made at Albany or at Washington. Since Dan Hanna has acquired control of the Cleveland Leader and the Cleveland News, they have been fighting the president at every issue, a valuable contribution to his opponents. But no one imagines that Mr. Hanna was actuated solely by a desire to become an editor. And yet the contribution of a service of such value goes unreported and unrecorded."

"Mr. Bryan, whose services on the lecture platform command $500 a night, will devote many nights and much oratory to Governor Wilson's campaign, far more, presumably than could be purchased for $10,000. To a less extent this is true of many men who enjoy something of a vogue on the chautauqua circuit.

"What, then, if the president's brother, Charles P. Taft, shall contribute more than $10,000 to this campaign? Mr. Taft was almost as much responsible for the president entering politics as was Mr. Roosevelt. Certainly his motives were not less pure. Then why should he not be at liberty to contribute in accordance with his means to his brother's campaign? No one can claim that President Taft has ever been influenced improperly by any contribution to his former campaign, nor will he be by any contribution to this. Those who are supporting Mr. Taft, this year especially, are doing so with the conviction that his defeat would mean disaster to the country. Who can properly or justly put a limitation on their patriotism in terms of dollars and cents?"

GOOD AUTHORITY.
Ex-Governor Hoard is as well qualified as any man in the state to discuss the present status of Wisconsin from the progressive reform standpoint. In speaking of outside favorable comment which is sometimes heard, and the statement that the standard of business morality has been elevated, he says, in the last issue of the Jefferson County Union:

"What rot! Business is not a whit better morally in Wisconsin than it has always been. Not a business man in the state is a particle more honest today because of progressive policies.

"But, on the contrary, there was never precipitated upon this state a more corrupt, dishonest, profligate and indefensible administration than the present one of McGovern. There was never a governor in the executive chair, who 'played politics' as dishonestly and in violation of all honorable rules and with such disregard to his own honor, as McGovern.

"Business interests have been regarded by this administration as fit subjects for oppressive taxation, for middlemen, impudent and tyrannical laws. Efforts have been artfully put forth to arouse class hatred, on the part of laboring men and farmers, telling them that the income tax was designed to 'sock it' to the manufacturers and let them go free. All this has been done by this gang of demagogues to excite class prejudice in their favor, whereby they might, it possible, win votes. Talk about making business 'morally better' when there is not an honest hair on the heads of the men who are running this progressive humbug on the state. They do not care a tinker's dam for business. It's politics and politics of the lowest kind ever known in the history of the state that they are after. No political party ever before laid hands on the university for the purpose of making it a partisan tool.

"Never before has the state superintendent felt obliged to raise his voice in protest against such unholy debauchment. Never before have reputable square-dealing men on the board of regents felt obliged to resign because they could no longer serve under such dishonest trickery and in violation of the state's best interests.

"Talk about making a state morally better by such methods? What an arrogant humbug it is!"

Every unprejudiced mind will admit Mr. Hoard has sized the situation up correctly, and yet this man McGovern applies to succeed himself on a ticket which has no claim to recognition by any national party. Afraid to come out in the open for Roosevelt, too badly hypnotized to declare himself for Taft and the republican party, yet asking republican support.

CAR SHORTAGE.
That the nation is confronted with a shortage of cars is already apparent, thus early in the season, before the great volume of freight has fairly commenced to move. That the outlook is serious is fully realized by the railroads, and they are helpless, because time and money are required for equipment.

The argument that the roads should have prepared for the emergency, is no argument, because they have been so badly handicapped by regulation that their treasuries have been depleted, and lack of confidence, as the result of adverse legislation, has made it next to impossible to find money for increased capital.

There is no limit to what the law can do to satisfy public clamor brought about by agitation, but there is a limit as to what the railroads can do. When the federal or state law fixes the passenger and freight rates, and the law of labor dictates the wage scale, the victim is between the upper and nether mill stone and the grinding process produces anything but freight cars.

The only hope for the railroads is in the Interstate Commerce Commission, and this is a fair tribunal, disposed to be just. If the roads can be assured, from this authority, that their interests will be protected, they will feel warranted in making the heavy investments which are demanded.

Beachey, the wizard of the air, handled a biplane very much as the one wheel bicycle riders used to handle a wheel, but the boys who attempt to imitate his stunts are liable to change their place of residence, in short order.

Almost any brand of politics may be had in Wisconsin this year, for the asking. You pay your taxes and take your choice, but it is well to shake before taking. Some of the brands are so diluted that they are on the market without a label.

The cost of living is found by statisticians to be the highest in ten years, and potatoes are said to have advanced 111 per cent. The villainous tariff seems to be "getting in its work."

Governor McGovern has been given an ultimatum, and unless he declares for the Bull Moose party at once, or sooner, another state ticket will be placed in the field. That ought to help some.

Heart to Heart Talks.

HER KINGDOM FOR A DOG.

"Have you seen Trixy?"

Trixy is a common brindle pup, about a year old, with white breast and white fore legs and a long tail.

Kennel experts would say Trixy is worth about 30 cents. But for love of the pup, a little girl nearly sobbed her life away—seven-year-old Irene Rohn of Chicago.

It was this way:

The dog disappeared while the family was at a summer resort, and the grief of Irene was such that the cottagers instituted an automobile search everywhere throughout the woods without success.

Inconceivable, little Irene was taken back to the city.

Her throat began to trouble her, and an operation was made necessary. Day and night at the hospital she cried for Trixy. The parents offered a reward, but no trace of the missing dog was ever discovered.

Irene was taken home.

Her sorrow assumed a serious phase. It threatened to make her condition dangerous.

"If I don't get Trixy back I don't want to get well," wailed the child. And the doctors shook their heads.

"I'll give anything I have to the person who will bring Trixy back," said Irene. "I will give my Teddy bear and my bank I've been saving in since Christmas. And I'll give the kind person a million kisses besides."

Her kingdom for a dog!

Irene recovered her health, but she nearly died for Trixy, and even now her eyes fill with tears at thought of her great loss.

Unnatural grief?

You may think so if you have never loved and lost a dog.

Is there in your memory some Trixy or Fido or Rex, faithful, affectionate, devoted, your companion and friend, who died and made your heart sore for many a day?

Then you can understand the real bereavement of this little girl, sorrowing because she will see Trixy no more.

The long, long sorrows of youth!

You are older and may conceal your feelings. There have been so many sore spots in your heart that have healed and calloused over.

But the heart of a child is naked to the wound.

Surely if by any means you should happen to see Trixy you will write to Irene.

TWO NEW LITERARY SOCIETIES FAVORED

Principal H. C. Buell Proposes New Literary Organizations For High School Students.

Two new literary societies, one for the boys and another for the girls, in addition to the four societies now in existence, were proposed by Principal H. C. Buell at the opening of the high school this morning.

Under the present arrangement it is impossible to give all students who desire to take part in such activities opportunity to join societies as each society is limited in membership to twenty-five persons. The board of education also favors the establishment of as many organizations of a literary character as may be needed to include such students as are interested in debate and public speaking. Efforts to organize several groups of students on some sort of a scholarship basis will doubtless be made shortly.

Opening Exercises.

The various high school organizations have been invited by Principal Buell to supply programs for the opening exercise of the school. No definite dates have been announced as yet but it is expected that each society will contribute some sort of an opening number during the coming weeks. Other speakers and programs will be arranged for the instruction and entertainment of the students. It is possible that Mrs. Lulu Loveland Shepard may give a talk tomorrow morning.

Forum Holds Meeting.

The Forum Literary Society held their meeting last night, and it proved to be one of the most successful which has been held for some time. Everything went off with dispatch, and after a short business session the program was given as follows:

Short topics:—"Electrocuting Neighbors," given by Carl Trick. He outlined the terrible sewer gas which resembled the hydrogen sulphide, or the gas which is obtained from sulphur.

"Electric Signals," a new device for railroads was presented by Jarvis Stewart. He gave his talk by means of a diagram on the blackboard, his remarks being very interesting.

The debate was won by the affirmative composed of Cunningham and Bennett, against Green and Cannon, on the subject:—"Resolved, that the United States should own and control the coal mines of the country." It was a close decision.

Rusk Lyceum.

The Rusk Lyceum also held their regular weekly meeting and the following program was given:

The debate was won by Bailey and Stewart, against Mohr and Atwood, on the question, "Resolved, that the income tax recently adopted in Wisconsin is beneficial to the state."

The short topics were:—"The Amazing Automobile," by Groat. The Recent Elgin Races, by Adler.

The Progressives at Chicago, by Smiley.

The Chess Club will be organized again this year, under the management of Leslie Bailey who was elected last night.

To Publish Phoenix.

Members of the junior class have decided to publish the Phoenix, the high school book, this year providing permission is obtained from Principal Buell and the school board. In former years it was the custom to issue the book every other year only, but the demand for the publications seems to warrant a yearly issue. The financial responsibility is the greatest factor to be considered.

KILLED VICTIM THEN LOST LIFE FIGHTING TO RESIST ARREST

Beloit Has Exciting Time Last Evening When Italian Runs Amuck And Kills Companion.

After shooting and fatally wounding Nick Lagri, an Italian workman at the Berlin Machine company, Vito Billigrino, also an Italian was later shot by Officer Carl Anderson after a running fight, that caused more than a little excitement in the Line City. Both men died last evening of their wounds and the inquest will be held Wednesday morning. Billigrino is considered to have been insane as the result of having been overcome by heat during the past summer.

Several persons witnessed the shooting, which occurred near the Beloit lumber yards. Billigrino, after firing the fatal shot, started east, brandishing his gun, threatening to shoot anyone who interfered. After a chase of some distance the fugitive entered the Dowd knife works grounds and started back toward the race. Crawling into a pipe, he used his weapon effectively in keeping the officers from entering for him. One man who started into the pipe withdrew just in time to escape from being shot.

Billigrino shortly afterward made his way out of his hiding place. Several in the crowd opened fire as he tried to escape. He was soon brought to the ground however by a shot from Officer Anderson after an exciting exchange of bullets. When searched his revolver was gone and it is thought that he threw it into the race.

Both men were taken to the Emergency hospital. Lagri died on the way. Billigrino was badly wounded in the abdomen and died at ten last night. Lagri leaves a widow and three children in Italy. His assassin was 20 years old.

THIEF STEALS HORSE FROM RYAN LIVERY

Engaged Rig Yesterday Afternoon and Did Not Return With It—No Clues to Whereabouts.

Engaging a rig under the pretense that he was going out in the town of Harmony on a business trip, a stranger yesterday stole a horse and buggy from the livery of D. Ryan & Sons and thus far the Sheriff or the owners have been unable to gain any definite clue as to his whereabouts. It is not the practice of the liverymen to let a rig to a stranger without reference but this man provided them and also paid in advance. He gave the impression that he was a road contractor, and said he was going out to the home of John Wixom to collect some money that was due him from the town of Harmony. Mr. Wixom, who was in town at the time, did not see him, and also disclaims ever having had any business with him.

A rig answering the description was seen on a short distance this side of Johnston Center late yesterday afternoon, but that is the only clue possessed.

The man is about five feet, eight inches tall, weighs 145 to 150 pounds, and is of stocky build. He is between fifty and sixty years old and had a small light gray mustache. He wore a dark gray suit, round felt hat of the same color, a soft shirt and four-in-hand tie.

The stolen horse is a dark bay animal, weighing 1075 pounds. It has some white on its hind feet and was in extra good flesh. The buggy and a top and red gear. The harness was trimmed with brass and had a blind bridle.

The police and sheriffs in the neighboring counties have been notified and given a description of the man and horse.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Sewer Force Moves: The sewer construction force of Gray-Robinson & Co. has finished laying the sewer extension on South Third street and has begun work on Chestnut Street. The fill gun work on Chestnut Street will be rolled with the steam roller this afternoon.

Fill Inexpensive: The big fill, necessary to prepare an approach to the Fourth Avenue bridge from the west side was made at the minimum of expense to the city. All of the material hauled in was waste and the greater part of it was taken from the basement of the new Apollo theater. The cost of hauling was nominal.

Managers To Meet: The managers of the teams of the Commercial Baseball league will hold a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. building this evening to select a committee to award the prizes to the winning teams in the league.

SHOE MEN VICTIMS OF CLEVER SWINDLE?

Commercial Agency's Report Would Indicate That Local Dealers Were Objects of "Bunco Game."

According to the report of a reliable commercial agency it is probable that a number of Janesville shoe dealers were victims of a clever swindle recently when they purchased a supply of Dunlap's corn, bunion and wart destroyers. Agents representing themselves as connected with T. J. Dunlap, Dr., manufacturer of non-secrets and proprietary medicines, located at Pittsburgh, Pa., 443-45 Fourth avenue, made several contracts with Janesville shoe men to supply them with corn and bunion salve. Inquiry at the address given in Pittsburgh through a commercial agency, however, shows that no such person has lived or been there for a period of ten or fifteen years. A large quantity of mail has been received at that address directed to the man, Dunlap, all of which has been turned over to the postal authorities by the tenant of the building who knows no man by the name of T. J. Dunlap.

Extravagant promises made by the agents in a contract made with the local dealers caused suspicion and led to the investigation. Among other things it was promised to have men make a house-to-house canvass of the city distributing circulars. Other expensive advertisement features were also agreed to.

ERECT LANDMARK ON OLD CAPITOL SITE

Shaft on Site of Wisconsin Territorial Capitol Will Be Dedicated On October 7.

The site of Wisconsin's territorial capitol at Belmont will be dedicated by a fitting landmark on October 7th, when Mrs. Jessie R. Skinner of Madison, chairman of the landmark committee of the Wisconsin federation of women's clubs, will present the monument to the state. For the past ten years the old capitol building has been resting a few rods from the site where it stood when the territory was comprising Wisconsin was first organized. The building itself was used as a pig sty for the past five years or more.
Following the presentation of the monument to the state by Mrs. Skinner at the dedication exercises on October 7th, a speech of acceptance will be made either by Governor Mc-Govern or his private secretary, Col. Duncan McGregor. Addresses will be made by Judge Robert C. Siebaker, representing the supreme court of Wisconsin; by Dr. Reuben C. Thwaites, secretary of the state historical society; and by Mrs. William C. Crosby, president of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's clubs. A large number of Madison club women expect to attend the ceremonies.

The monument is of Wisconsin mahogany granite from the quarries of the American Granite Company of Milwaukee.
Belmont was the scene of one of the most spirited controversies over the location of a permanent seat of state government. There were seventeen applicants, many of the cities existing merely on maps issued by real estate "boomers." Through the influence of James Duane Doty who had been circuit judge for that portion of Michigan territory lying west of Lake Michigan, Madison was chosen. The first capitol at Madison cost $60,000. It soon proved inadequate and in 1882 two transverse wings were added to the building which had been remodeled and transformed in 1857. The total appropriation for enlargement of the capitol building and improvement of the park at Madison, up to 1904 aggregated about $900,000. On Feb. 27th of that year a large part of the capitol and the central portion was destroyed by fire. Three wings of the new capitol which will cost $6,000,000 have already been raised. The central dome is now in process of construction and Lew T. Porter, secretary of the capitol building commission says that the final wing of the new capitol will be started next spring.

CITY COUNCIL HOLDS A REGULAR SESSION

Receives Communication From Fire Police—Atty. William Ruger Paid For Revision Work.

Business primarily of a routine character was brought before the City Council for its consideration this afternoon. The communication from the Fire Police relative to the substitution of a motor-propelled wagon for the apparatus in the west side fire station was received and placed on file. City Engineer C. V. Kerch submitted plans for the new concrete drinking fountain to be constructed at Spring Brook at the intersection of McKey Boulevard and Eastern Avenue. The City Clerk was directed to draw an order, payable from the General Fund in the sum of $200 in favor of Attorney William Ruger, Sr., this being part payment for his services in revising the city ordinances. The City Clerk was also ordered to renew the insurance on the polling booths. The salary list for the month of September was presented and the Clerk directed to draw orders for the payment of its various items. The salaries total $2,691.50.

SNOW STORMS SWEEPING ACROSS THE NORTHWEST

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Minneapolis, Sept. 24.—Snow storms are sweeping portions of North Dakota and Minnesota, according to advices received here today. At Crookston, Minn., a steady rain of thirty-six hours today turned to a blinding snow storm and the northern portion of the Red River valley is covered with snow. Two and one-half inches fell at Larimore, North Dakota last night and light falls of snow were also reported from Grand Forks and Napoleon.

Dinner Stories

A Kansas school teacher was drilling her composition class in the relative value of words and phrases. The phrase "horse sense" was discussed, and she told one of the boys to write a sentence containing that phrase.
The boy labored for ten minutes and produced this: "My father didn't lock the barn door, and he ain't seen the horse sense."

Lucien Young of the navy has a good many medals of various kinds, awarded him for his notable services. There was a dinner in San Francisco one night and Lucien attended in full dress uniform, wearing his medals proudly displayed on his chest.
He rose to speak. After the applause had died away a man sitting in the rear of the hall shouted: "Lucien, where are you checked for?"

A Kansas City young lady of few words went to a dentist to have a tooth extracted.
"Pull it!" she said to the dentist.
"All right," replied the dentist. He applied the cocaine, adjusted his forceps and out came the tooth.
"Want it?" he asked the young lady, holding the tooth before her.
"Want it?" she exclaimed. "Want it? What for? Do you think I'm an Elk?"

A man traveling in Maine met a middle-aged farmer, who told him his father, aged ninety, was still on the farm where he was born.
"Ninety years old, eh?"
"Yop; pop's close to ninety."
"Is his health good?"
"Tain't much now. He's been complaining for a few months back."
"What's the matter with him?"
"I dunno; sometimes I think farmin' don't agree with him!"

Peter I. Erdahl.

Peter I. Erdahl passed away at his home on Almoner street, Sunday about 7:10 p. m. after an illness of over a year, which he patiently endured.
He was born at Bergan, Norway, on February 9, 1841, and came to America when quite young. On April 19, 1861, he enlisted at Madison in Co. K, 3rd Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry, being the first three years volunteer from his town. Pleasant Springs, Dane County, Wis. He was promoted to color-bearing corporal of his company. At the expiration of his term he re-enlisted December 21, 1863, and served until the close of the war. He was honorably discharged July 18, 1865 having served four years and four months. He took active part in the battle at Winchester and the three days fight at Chancellorsville, where he was taken prisoner and placed in Libby prison until exchanged. He also engaged in the three days' battle at Gettysburg, and Antietam and was wounded at Resaca, Georgia, May 16, 1864.
On May 19 1866 he was united in marriage to Sara J. Hawkins, of Clayton Winnebago county, Wis. To this union were born six children, the oldest Anna, died several years ago. For twenty years Mr. and Mrs. Erdahl made their home at Pleasant Springs then they moved to Magnolia where they resided for twelve years, finally moving from their farm there to Evansville, which has been their home for the past eight years.
Besides a large number of sorrowing friends both here and at Magnolia, there are left to mourn his loss his wife, four sons, Francis A. who resides on the farm at Magnolia, Ellisworth of Beloit Julius and James of Milwaukee, one daughter, Valeria, now in Utah and one brother Lewis, residing in Pleasant Springs.
Funeral was held at the house at 2:00 and at 2:30 at the Free Baptist church today, Rev. Myers conducted the service. Interment was in Maple Hill cemetery.

A Most Exclusive Exhibition

THE advertisement read, "An exclusive exhibition of the very latest foreign fashions in hats, costumes, neckwear, and other articles of apparel. Admission by card only. Cards can be secured at the Main Desk."

When the women of the town read that, they sat up a bit straighter and said, "M-m-m, that sounds good. I think I'll go."

So straightway they took sufficient care from the week's household allowance, and a little more in case any bargains were strayed upon, and set out in haste, fearful that many other women would be there before them, and they would not be able to see anything.

When the man at the Main Desk handed them the large, impressive-looking engraved cards of admission, the women felt very exclusive and smart and quite as if they were going to some very select function. They gave up these cards of admission at the door, and talked in subdued, whispers, and looked at the dresses and handled the neckwear in a sort of superior, indifferent way, as if French dresses at two hundred dollars and hand-embroidered collars at ten dollars were everyday matters with them.

Then they went home and told their neighbors of the exquisite things they had seen, and implied there was no telling how many they had bought. And for several days they felt quite superior and far removed from the question of stew for dinner and getting Margaret a dress for a dollar.

But in the crowd was one woman of an inquiring mind. "Since the cards of admission are given to anybody who asks for them," quoth she to herself, "why all this pother about the exhibition's being so exclusive, and all this fine, roped-off air to it? Methinks I will watch operations a bit."

And so she stood by. And she saw that when the man at the door had collected quite a pack of admission cards, he took them to the man at the Main Desk, and with a wink handed them back to him. And the man at the desk, with solemn face, began distributing them over once more to the women who applied.

And this woman went away and marvelled that her sisters could be so childishly pleased with such a mere pretense, and that because such a fuss was made about these things, their value in the eyes of many was enhanced. And furthermore, she marvelled that the people were willing to pay the price for all this humbug. For in the end the people pay.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE MEDAL.

IF A CERTAIN great man very much in the public eye just now, a popular periodical recently used an apt French phrase. It said that he had "les défauts des qualités" which, as the gentle reader has already guessed, means that he had the defects that go naturally with his peculiar qualities.

This great man is pre-eminently a "doer," and according to this analysis of his character, he has the precipitancy and indiscretion which are the complementary defects of that character.

Now as to whether this particular man has the qualities and defects mentioned, I am not going to try to guess. You see, I've given my solemn word to the Editor to keep out of politics. But the reason I've been telling you about him is just this. I want to call your attention to the value of that French phrase.

Do you realize that almost all of us have "les défauts des qualités"? We have you know. And in judging or blaming or analyzing our family or our friends, and especially, I think, our children, we should certainly take account of this.

And yet how seldom we do! For instance, a child is quick to learn, eager and impulsive; we praise these qualities. But he is also the inevitable complement, rash and impulsive, and probably quick tempered. We blame him for these tendencies and wonder where on earth they came from. They are nothing but other manifestations of the qualities we praise.

I know a young woman who, all through her childhood and girlhood, was tremendously intense, in her play, her study, her friendships, and all that she felt or did. Her mother undoubtedly knew this and, I think took pride in it. But when womanhood came, and the same intensity displayed itself in other ways and almost ruined the girl's life, the mother could not see where she got such a passionate disposition. (If the corner of the French phrase will permit I'd like to twist it a bit, and say that we also have the qualities of our defects.)

For instance, a friend of mine supplied a piece of information which a group of people wanted. "How did you ever find that out?" they inquired. "How?" she answered. "Because I wanted to know and asked. That's the way with you people—you laugh at me because I go around asking questions, but you are glad enough to share my knowledge when you want to know anything." You see she had the quality of her defect—if you may call curiosity a defect. I don't, but some people do—the fund of knowledge that went with her inquiring mind.

Good and bad are often only two names for different phases of the same thing.

And if you will use this point of view as a key, I think you will find it easier to understand folks' characters, your own included.

HOUSEHOLD TALKS

by Henrietta
D. Graue

"Be kind.
"Be prudent.
"Never scold.
"Air the cellar.
"Go to the fair."
This is written in the journal of a notable woman who looked well to the ways of her household in the month of September, 1875.
Her advice holds good and we pass it on after testing and trying it among ourselves.

In exposition hall are rows of jelly. "I do declare if there isn't that crystal tumbler that I gave Aggie's Thomas years ago, filled with apple jelly. Now it must be her granddaughter, Tilly, who heaved that tumbler. I remember Aggie was a great hand with apple jelly." "Do I know how she made it?" she asked in answer to her query. "Well, I ought to for she taught me how."

"You take nice, tart apples. Fall Pippins are best. Quarter and core and boil them in just enough water to cover them. When tender drain in a bag without squeezing it. Add a pound of sugar and the juice of one lemon to every pint of apple juice. Boil it twenty minutes, then test it by dropping it into a glass of cold water; if it sinks to the bottom it is done and must come off the fire at once."

"Fill each glass half full; then lay a rose geranium leaf in and then fill to the top and set in the sunshine until cold."

Certainly farmer folks have many daily table luxuries that are denied city dwellers. We were asked, to look over the exhibition of "stove plants" and discovered that these were specimens from the bumper food crops that are making the middlemen's dreams of big profits so delightful.

Among these beauties of the vegetable kingdom were fruits and vegetables that the progressive grangers are experimenting with, first in the garden and then on their tables, that we had never heard of before. A lemon cucumber, round as an apple, yellow as an orange and with a decided lemon flavor, was displayed in quantities. It was delicious eaten without seasoning and is said to grow here about as prolifically as in its home state, California.

Then there were beans. We confess that up to that visit to the fair we didn't know beans, the great substitute for sinewy meat. There was turtle soup, beans, that taste, they say, like terrapin! If they do we stand shoulder to shoulder with the colonel who issued the order to his officers, "Give the men beans three times a day and as often as they will eat them." And besides "turtle" beans there were giant wax and midge wax and speckled cranberry and improved Lima beans, and a man with the beans, who told what to use for fertilizing the hills to produce beans rich in nitrogen and what to use to bring out the best crop. We knew that beans were ambitious creatures, but we didn't know how high to heaven they could climb before.

Then there were modest, retiring beetles for beet-keepers, and gaudy plumed Egyptian blood beet and vulgar, enormous working sugar beet. And cabbage; how cabbage can grow! Talk about mushrooms growing, they are not in it for a minute with the cabbage. We're backing them.

The peas were an army where the men were all officers and no privates. Tom Thumb and Little Gen were precious prize takers, but the latter varieties show great improvement over the last time we went to the fair.

Polly, the prize cow, was there with a sworn statement of her year's work that will interest we folks who must pay ten cents a quart, and we heard, too, the story of how Old Speckle's eggs reach the city grocery store. We are going to pass both these on before long.

The Kitchen Cabinet

DAINTY ways of serving food have a usefulness beyond their aesthetic value. Everyone knows that a feeble appetite is often tempted by a tastefully garnished dish, when the same material carelessly served would seem quite unpalatable.

EGGLESS DISHES.

During the season when eggs are high and scarce, we must have cakes and puddings, and those that require few or no eggs are especially favored.

For griddle cakes take a cup of corn meal and scald it at night with a cup of boiling water, add two cups each of flour and sweet milk, a tablespoonful each of shortening and molasses, a teaspoonful of salt and half of a softened yeast cake. Beat hard and set to rise. In the morning it too thin, add a little more flour.

One Egg Ginger Bread.—Take a cup each of sugar and molasses, add a half cup of melted shortening, a beaten egg and three cups of flour, a tablespoonful of ginger, and a cup of boiling water, add the last thing, in which two tablespoons of soda have been dissolved. Bake forty-five minutes.

Mock Angel Food.—This popular cake, which everybody has tried, baked in layers or in cups, is a cheap and satisfactory cake when eggs are high or at any other time. Scald a cup of milk in boiling water. Sift together a cup of sugar, a cup of flour, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a pinch of salt. Into this pour the boiling milk and stir until smooth and thick, then add the beaten whites of two eggs; cut and fold them in carefully, not to lose the lightness, and bake in an ungreased pan, without using flouring.

Club Cake.—Take a cup of sugar, a half cup of shortening, a cup of thick sour milk, a cup of raisins and a teaspoonful of soda, spices to taste, a few nuts and two cups of flour. Bake in layers and put together with orange filling.

When making custard, use a little cornstarch, arrow root or flour in the place of one egg, and the custard will not be noticeably less palatable. Eggs that are packed in water glass, one part to twelve of water, in October will keep without losing an egg, if care is taken to keep them cool without freezing.

A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS

Edna K. Woolley

NOT ALL GOSSIP IS BAD.

A society for the elimination of gossip is being formed in Dayton, Ohio. It is said.

Wouldn't it have been better to define the kind of gossip that should be eliminated, and insert the adjective "malicious"?

It's only malicious gossip that works harm. Malicious gossip is harmful. It is rather pleasurable, and it spreads news of interesting neighborhood happenings that otherwise wouldn't go abroad. It gives one subjects to think about and to discuss. A good gossip, of a kindly turn, makes everybody feel good, and none of us want that sort of thing eliminated.

But unfortunately, the malicious element is nearly always introduced by some mischief-maker who can never place a kindly construction upon anything, and who would rather stir up a sensation than eat a plain meal.

Every neighborhood is afflicted by a certain individual of this class. She is continually pointing the finger of suspicion, and no matter what takes place, or what doesn't take place, or what she imagines should or did happen, her tongue wags with insinuations until all who hear are impregnated with the idea that something is wrong.

Small towns are especially afflicted with the malicious gossipier. Just the other day I had a letter from a young woman who lives in such a place, asking how she might overcome a tale that had been spread concerning her.

"I was suddenly called out of town," she wrote. "Instead of taking the train, which would have made me wait a couple of hours, I hired an auto from the garage to take me to the place I was to go. The driver was a young married man of our town. He returned for me that night and drove me back home. The rumor was started that I was out joy-riding with him, and now everybody looks at me as if I had committed a crime. I think it is dreadful."

It is from just such innocent beginnings that false tales are manufactured, and many persons' good name blackened.

It's claimed people are better, on the average, in small towns, because they are so closely watched, while in the city, feeling themselves freed from espionage, they let themselves loose.

There is possibly something to this. But isn't it a fact that more reputations are ruined without good cause, in the small town than in the city, simply because certain sensation-hungry women fork their imaginations over time? The same women in the city would work off their energy to some extent snooping around the big downtown stores or going to matinees or picture shows; but in the monotonous small-town environment the clatter of their tongues must fill idle hours.

One doesn't entirely escape in the city, even for the certain sections of every city are composed of small-town neighborhoods, each a little gossip center by itself. Often a single apartment house is a hotbed of gossip and more than puzzled landlord has suddenly found himself with an empty building on his hands simply because things got too warm for everybody and the tenants moved out to get away from each other.

Fads and Fashion

New York, September 21.—It is predicted by those who are in a position to know that draperies will be all important during the coming season. The draped effects of the Spring, which were ushered in by the banner styles, all more or less bizarre and awkward, were in many cases too extreme and unbecoming to last for more than a brief season. The drapery of the autumn essays to be gracefully becoming as well as chic.

swathes the figure in flowing yet clinging folds. It leaves a comparatively old fulness within that outline. Some of the new models are little draped if at all. There are one-piece frocks that at first sight seem distinctly familiar, but when one examines them one usually finds subtle differences between them and the straight scant one-piece trotting frocks of last season. The outline may have changed but little, but plait have crept into the skirts or little rippling folds appear where in the skirt length or perhaps it is merely a slightly greater breadth in the limp straight falling skirt that works the difference between the new suit and the old one.

The Piquant Painter models showing the short bouffant pannier are still shown by certain makers, but rather as period frocks than in an effort to make them dominate present day fashions. Everywhere, however, one sees echoes of the pannier, attenuated echoes, draperies, that one can hardly call panniers, yet they hint at pannier origin or inspiration. These draperies fall long and limp, are drawn away but slightly from the front or are caught up but a trifle here or there.

Still there is the tendency to a foot line, narrower than the line above it, though in reality the new skirt may have added foot width, straight falling, flatly pressed plaits or limp folds. No flare, except in extreme period models, but a comfortable width for motion and a comfort for the use of more material, and, above this clinging. Sometimes the whole skirt is plaited or has a plaited section, or is trimmed in scant flounce, or has a flounced, plaited or clinging plain front, with some sort of flowing train, or plaits falling from the shoulder to provide the drapery.

In evening frocks there are many charming variations upon this idea of the flowing drapery from shoulder or high girle top, and delightful effects are obtained by using chiffon, gauze or fine lace in what may be called modified Watteau fashion, soft wide pleats or breadths falling free from the shoulders or from the shoulder blades and either merging into train drapery or partly veiling or draped or flounced skirt.

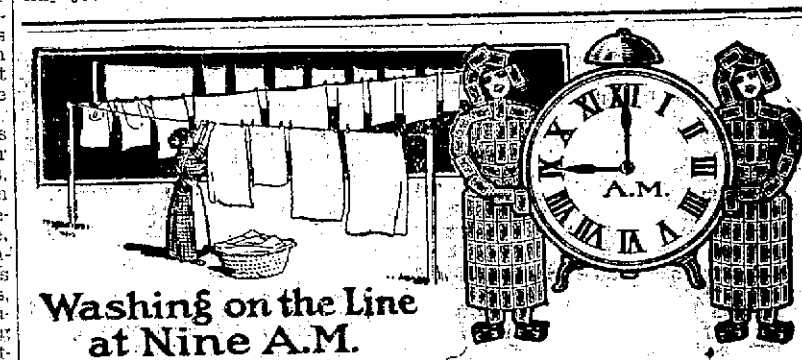

Some of the handsomest of the new evening gowns, too, have draped sides and backs, with petticoat effects in front. In such models the bodice, which in front is likely to show a continuation of the petticoat material, and the draped, or draped, or chamelon or more or rich, one-lone silks, while the petticoat is of sheer stuff.

Accordion plaits, sun plaits, straight plaits of all depths, box plaits are all used extensively in the new models. That certain phases of it will be overdone is a foregone conclusion.

clusion. The accordion plaited skirt and accordion plaited blouse are too effective and too easily acquired not to be adopted enthusiastically by the crowd, and the woman who will do well not to welcome this old favorite too ardently.

There are innumerable attractive things among the embroidered ones, overbodices, etc., that are shown with the new things in the shops. Some of course are hopelessly commonplace, but there are others so novel and individual, so full of alluring possibilities that any knowing woman might be tempted by them.

Fine embroideries in pearl or in crystal or in two together on tulle or chiffon are most in evidence in these embroidered tunics, etc., as in other trimmings for evening wear, but a good deal is done with silver and with fine jet and crystal in combination. Bead embroidery in lovely soft tones is revived and much is done with black and white, beaded tulle. The white tulle is thickly sewn with tiny crystal beads and the black tulle with tiny jet beads.

EVERY ATOM CLEANSSES

Fine lace, especially in the yellowed, ceru and ochre tones are used in great quantities and tulle, plain dotted or embroidered, is tremendously popular. There are beautiful and effective heavy laces, too, all of the old favorites and some more recent arrivals, such as the gena, having their uses.

Frocks, as a general thing, are longer. The trotting frock clears the ground well but is not exaggeratedly short and all other frocks touch though their narrowness often makes them roll up when the wearer walks, so that they do not really look long. There are a good many trained frocks, too, the trains usually separate from the narrow underskirts and are likely to trail off at almost any angle instead of falling demurely in the back.

Unevenness of skirt bottom line is one of the features of the new modes and has been the subject of considerable experiment during the summer. Many of the cleverest drapery schemes demand such unevenness, and a skirt revealing the foot and ankle at some point where the drapery is lifted or where the skirt is opened up a little way, no longer seems unusual.

Black and white, so long the supreme favorite in millinery, has been displaced by the new "fur" shades which promise to be a veritable craze this autumn. These shades, which in Paris are called "eclipse colors," include seal brown, mole, fawn, taupe and all the grays from pearl to dark gun metal shades.

The ordinary felt hat is at a discount these days, for most of the striking fall models seem to be made of silk, velvet or fur, or of all these materials combined. Rarely is a hat made of one material only. If it is, it is sure to be trimmed lavishly with some other fabric.

There will be an unusual variety of fabrics in fall millinery, including corded silks. These are in charming two-colored effects and in metallic combinations like gold and silver, gun metal and copper, brass and steel. In some of these fabrics uncut velvet is imitated to perfection, while others are quite heavily ribbed, looking more like corduroy or Bedford cloth. More in black and all leading dark shades will be profusely used.

Maline hats are great favorites, and are shown in black, white, corbeau, blue, copper, forest brown, combinations of peach and black, old gold and national blue, turquoise and white, and black and white.

NERVOUS DESPONDENT WOMEN

Find Relief in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Their Own Statements—So Testify.

Plateau, Pa.—"When I wrote to you first I was troubled with female weakness and backache, and was so nervous that I would cry at the least noise, it would startle me so. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's vegetable compound, and I don't have any more crying spells. I sleep sound and my nervousness is better. I will recommend your medicines to all suffering women."

—Mrs. MARY HALSTEAD, Plateau, Pa., Box 98.

Here is the report of another genuine case, which still further shows that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be relied upon.

Walcott, N. Dakota.—"I had inflammation which caused pain in my side, and my back ached all the time. I was so blue that I felt like crying if anyone even spoke to me. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I began to gain right away. I continued its use and now I am a well woman."

Heart and Home Problems

by
MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson—For one and one-half years I have been going with a boy of 21. I am 18. People are beginning to link our names together and one of my friends asked me when the wedding was going to be. I have tried not to see my friend so often, but he comes anyway.

Shall I continue to see him regularly or shall I go more with other boys? I am popular, but he expects me to give most of my time to him and has an indefinite notion that we may marry some day, though he has never spoken definitely about marriage.

I am earning a good salary and feel that I do not know enough about housekeeping, etc., to be married. Besides, it will be hard to get along on his $75 a month. We are not engaged, though he's got into the habit of kissing me and one old hen saw him do it.

If you don't want to marry him, don't let him "dangle." Accept the invitations of the other boys whether he likes it or not.

If you love him and hope to be married to him some day, tell him frankly that people are making remarks about you and that you cannot give him so much of your time any more, since you are not engaged. Then, if he really wants to marry you, that ought to make him come to the point.

It's too bad he has the kissing habit, but it's up to you to break it unless you become formally engaged. Tell him you have both been wrong but you mean to be right after this and keep your lips for the man you intend to marry.

I wish yours would understand how necessary it is for them to refuse liberties to any man who is not definitely engaged to marry them. It seems all right at first; but the time always comes when somebody finds it out and the girl's good name is blackened; to say nothing of her own feelings in the matter when she finds out that the fellow was only having fun with her.

Only Really Happy Time.

ERUPTION LIKE PIMPLES ON FACE

Developed Into Sores, Would Almost Scratch Himself Raw. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Completely Cured Him.

Watkins, Kan.: "My child's scalp trouble became so bad that I was ashamed to have anyone see him. His head had a red scab on it. He also had a terrible itching on his face which was gradually growing worse. The eruption was like pimples which developed into sores when he scratched which he did almost constantly. Baby would almost scratch himself raw."

"I had used several different kinds of ointment, none of them helping in the least bit, when I saw the Cuticura advertisement in the paper and it made me think of the good results my sister had when she used it for her children. I had only used Cuticura Soap and Ointment about two weeks before I noticed that the sores were almost entirely gone and it must have been a month or six weeks he was troubled before I began the treatment. He would get away when I would put the Cuticura Ointment on him. Cuticura Soap and Ointment completely cured him and he has a clear complexion now. I also used Cuticura Ointment on the older children's heads and find it leaves the hair soft and silky." (Signed) Mrs. W. H. Hughes, Dec. 31, 1911.

Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Cuticura Ointment (50c.) are sold throughout the world. A single box is sufficient. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

CENTER

Center, Sept. 23.—On Saturday the body of Lee Fisher, son of the late L. U. Fisher, who was buried here three years ago, was removed to Janesville to rest beside his father in Oak Hill cemetery.

It was announced that the marriage of Edward Davis and Miss Pearl Wells will take place in the near future.

Sunday afternoon at four o'clock, all that was mortal of the late P. M. Dann, the aged father of H. G. and Miss Effie Dann of Evansville, was tenderly consigned to his last resting place beside his wife who preceded him several years ago, in the ripe old age of 83 years and was mourned by his near and dear ones. John Hubbell and sister, the Misses Minnie and Nellie and Mr. and Mrs. Will Hubbell, were visitors at Fred Fuller's Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Coon and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Silverthorn of Evansville came down to attend the funeral of the late P. M. Dann.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Fisher entertained company Sunday.

The Misses Tillie and Anna Dorzen of Janesville were visitors at the cemetery here Sunday.

Miss Rose Harrington spent Thursday night with Miss Emily Barlow.

H. O. Barless and E. Dunbar were state fair visitors at Milwaukee last week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Dann, son and daughter, and Miss Effie Dann, of Evansville took supper at F. H. Fuller's Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Hans Harnack and sister, Miss Mattie Harnack, were Evansville visitors Saturday.

FURTHER DETAILS OF THE LAW QUESTIONED

CITY ATTORNEY DOUGHERTY'S
OPINION MAY CAUSE CON-SIDERABLE DISCUSSION
THROUGHOUT THE STATE.

MAY TEST ENTIRE LAW

By Bringing Matters Into Court
Should Local Council Decide
Not to Appropriate the Money Asked.

That the opinion filed by City Attorney William H. Dougherty relative to the appropriation of the sum of six thousand dollars by the council for the establishment and maintenance of an industrial school in Janesville, the way is paved for an interesting suit which may be brought to test the legality of the chapter in question. The law in question is one of the bits of progressive legislation enacted by the 1911 legislature. According to its terms the councils in the cities where schools are established have no jurisdiction other than to raise the levy demanded by taxation. The industrial board, appointed by the school board of the city, has unlimited power to fix any amount they desire up to one half mill tax and the council can do nothing but place it on the tax roll, in the yearly budget to be made a special tax for the year.

The law gives to the board of industrial education in each city more power than is vested in the body which creates them. The board of education of the cities submits to the various councils an estimate of the amount to be needed during the coming year, but the board of industrial education which is elected by the board of education, and is not directly responsible to the people, reports to the council the amount it will need for the coming year, and the council has no discretion in the matter, other than to see that the money is turned over to the industrial board.

These are the facts that led City Attorney William H. Dougherty to file his opinion with the city council yesterday, questioning the validity of the law, and the right of the legislature to barter away legislative rights, giving them to a body not elected by the people. Whether or not the council will be coerced by the law, or will decide to fight it and make a test case of it, is a question they must decide. Mr. Dougherty's part in the matter thus far has been only to render his opinion of the statute, Chapter 616 of the Session Laws.

Further than that, members of one of the many commissions at the state capitol at Madison, the state board of industrial education have raised the question as to whether or not an industrial board could not borrow money of a bank, or issue orders that would be discounted at a bank. In other words, it would have the various boards throughout the state given absolute power to do as they pleased with practically no check on their acts, government by the few being apparently one of the principles of progressivism, although their platform orators may declare otherwise.

Statements like the above are substantiated by the letter from the state assistant for Industrial Education, Warren E. Hicks, of Madison. When the council first delayed action on the matter of the levy of six thousand dollars for the establishment and maintenance of an industrial school in Janesville, the local board instructed Superintendent H. C. Buell to talk with Mr. Hicks to see what had been done in other cities where the schools had been established. The local board had acted only as they were instructed under the law, and had presumed that there would be no question as to the legality of such a procedure. In reply to the query of the local board, Mr. Hicks sent the following letter: Madison, Wis., Sept. 4, 1912.

Supt. H. C. Buell, Janesville, Wis.: Dear Sir:—In my phone talk a few minutes ago you stated that your industrial board had made a levy of $6,000 and that your council questioned whether they had authority to make such a levy unless a petition of twenty-five persons was filed with the industrial board for the establishment of a continuation school.

In reply I will say that the authority of the industrial board to make a levy is found on the notice of the tax levy herein enclosed. It is section 553p-4, 1 to 6 inclusive. You will see that there is nothing therein that conditions the tax levy upon any petition of any sort. On the contrary, the petition referred to is in means that the people have for forcing the board to establish a class for instruction in any particular branch that a group of people may wish established. It is independent in every way of the question of tax levy.

I stated over the phone that we undigested and fermenting food and foul gases take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box will keep your head clear, stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular and make you feel cheerful and bully for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

had a decision from the assistant attorney general on this subject. This department has never formally referred this question to the attorney general at all. Informally I went personally with a representative from Superior to Assistant Attorney General Stebbins and raised the question whether or not an industrial board could borrow money of a bank or issue orders that may be discounted by a bank. In the conference of two hours the assistant attorney studied this question fundamentally whether the industrial boards are absolute in determining the amount of tax levy for industrial education. He stated that the language was definite and conclusive. Notice:—"There shall be levied and collected in every city," etc. The verb is "shall" unqualifiedly "shall." This question is not new at all. It has been up in at least a dozen cities of the state this summer. It has been referred to the city attorneys. I have personally met mayors and councils and discussed the matter. In each and every case the council has reached the conclusion that the industrial board is absolute in determining the amount of the levy, that the regular board of education and the council, the mayor, have nothing to do with it at all. I am, therefore, saying this to you so that you may make such use of it as you may elect.

Cordially yours,
(Signed) Warren E. Hicks,
Assistant for Industrial Education.

The section of the statute referred to by Mr. Hicks in his letter reads as follows:
Sec'n 553p-4. "1. The local board of education of every city, village or town shall report to the common council, or village or town clerk at or before the first day of September in each year, the amount of money required for the next fiscal year for the support of all the schools established or to be established under this act in said city, village or town, and for the purchase of necessary additions to school sites, fixtures and supplies."

2. There shall be levied in every city, village or town, subject to taxation under this act, a tax upon all taxable property in said city, village or town, at the same time and in the same manner as other taxes levied and collected by law, which together with the funds provided by law and placed at the disposal of said city, village or town for the same purpose, shall be equal to the amount of money so required by said local board of industrial education for the purposes of this act.

3. The rate of tax levied for the purposes of this act in any town, village or city shall not in any one year exceed one-half mill for the maintenance of all schools established under this act.

4. The said taxes for the purpose named in this act shall be in addition to all other special and general taxes levied for town, village or city purposes and shall be for the use and support of schools established under this act.

5. The treasurer of the town, village or city shall keep such money separate from all other money, to be used exclusively for the purposes of industrial education as herein provided. All moneys appropriated and expended under this act shall be expended by the local board of industrial education and shall be paid by the town, village or city treasurer on orders issued by the said board and signed by its president and secretary.

6. All moneys received by said board shall be paid to the town, village or city treasurer for the fund of the local board of industrial education.

COOK BOOKS.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

A COOK BOOK is an inspired publication which tells the busy housewife just how to prepare food in such a manner that nobody will ask for a second helping.

It consists of recipes which have been tried out on people whose appetites are not affected by their eyesight or sense of taste. These recipes usually call for ingredients no two of which can be found at any grocery in town at the same time, and they also call for a heavy cash outlay in the direction of $7 sugar and .30-cent eggs. After a woman has followed one of these copyrighted recipes around the kitchen with a quiet measure and a spoon watch, several times in succession, she will be able to blend it into real food that will not cause people to push back from the table with the air of having had enough.

A cook book contains two kinds of recipes—winter and summer. The winter recipes always call for green corn and red raspberries, garnished with cantaloupe and the fervent breath of the young onion. The only way to follow the advice of a cook book in the wintertime is to convert the garage into a hot-house and raise vegetables with steam heat.

The summer recipes are very easily assembled, as they deal principally with eggs and a mild form of blanc mange. Cook books are always long on omelettes, especially when eggs are 12-cents a dozen. They also explain the anatomy of the rhubarb pie with great minuteness, and tell how to make watermelon pickles that will not be disturbed by any of the guests more than once.

Cook books have little or no literary style and deal largely with abstract subjects, such as surfeiting a family of five on $9 cents a week and making soap bone last from Sunday noon until the following Tuesday. We have read a good many cook books merely as a matter of diversion, but never found one that could tell how to make home-made bread that would deceive anybody after the first day.

SAPPING OF FOUNDATION CAUSES WALLS' COLLAPSE

Side of Breese Monument Building Caved in Last Night As Result of Excavations.

As the result of the weakening of the foundation, caused by excavation for the new Apollo theatre, the east wall of the Breese Monument Works collapsed while no one was evening and fell into the adjoining basement. The damage to the building and to the excavation work is estimated at approximately $400. The accident occurred while no one was at work, otherwise the accident might have had serious consequences for the laborers. The earth wall underneath the building had been propped up but the braces were insufficient to protect it. The machinery in the monument factory has not been used for several days because the vibrations from it threatened the safety of the building. The debris will be cleared away at once.

MAKES YOUR BACKACHE VANISH, DRIVES ALL RHEUMATIC PAINS AWAY

New Discovery Eases Stiff, Sore, Swollen Joints and Muscles While Backache and Bladder Disorders Disappear After Few Doses are Taken.

No matter how badly you suffer how chronic your case may be, or what has failed to cure you, your pains will leave, your aches vanish and the tortuous killing backache or rheumatism will bother you no more. This is what Croxone, the new scientific discovery, does for sufferers of such troubles. It cures these diseases because it reaches the cause and removes it. It soaks right in through the walls and linings of the kidneys and the stopped-up, inactive organs like water does a sponge—neutralizes, and dissolves every particle of uric acid and makes the kidneys siff from the blood all the waste matter and poisons that lodge in the joints and muscles to scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism. It soothes and heals the delicate linings of the bladder and leaves the kidneys in a clean, strong, healthy condition, so they can filter the blood and keep you well.

If you suffer with backache—have pains in the neck or sides—stiff or dizzy spells—a few doses of Croxone will relieve the congestion and you will be surprised how quickly all kidney, bladder and rheumatic troubles will disappear. Croxone is different from all other remedies. It is not like anything else on earth ever used for the purpose. Pills, tablets and other medicines merely stimulate the kidneys, at the best, "giving only" temporary relief. Croxone removes the cause. It starts to work the minute you take it and relieves your suffering the very first time you use it. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. You can secure an original package of Croxone at trifling cost from any first-class druggist. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case.

FIRST OPENING

Being An Exposition of The How and Why of the Spinal Nerves and Their Relation to Disease.

Your spine is out of line when you're sick; supple, willowy spines throw off disease and keep all parts of your body healthy and active. Notice the illustration at point marked No. 2. It shows a subluxated vertebra of the spine. This vertebra being out of place presses and squeezes the nerve that branches off from the main spinal cord at point marked No. 2. When this impingement occurs the nerve force that flows to the other end of the nerve is shut off and the part depending on this particular nerve for food is in time weakened and diseased. Chiropractic, the science of spines, will remove the pressure caused by the subluxated vertebra and Nature, through nerve force, restores the weakened part. "Don't be sick longer. The Chronicles of Addington Peace

By B. FLETCHER ROBINSON

Author with A. Conan Doyle of 'The Hound of the Baskervilles, etc.'

Copyright by W. G. CHAPMAN

He had sprung from them with a bound like that of a wild beast, and with his fettered hands had gripped the shaft of the bust of Nero, swinging it high above his head. For a part of a second, as a film might seize the photograph, I saw him stand in the moonlight with that cruel face in bronze rocking above his own white face in flesh and blood below; yet, as I remember it, there was neither fear nor anger in his expression. And then, as it were, the shutter clicked, for Peace dealt me so violent a blow that it sent me rolling down the roof into the darkness. And as I tumbled headlong from the ledge, the whole air seemed to burst into fragments about me—a mighty concussion that left me, deafened, shaken, bewildered, amongst the broken tiles and falling fragments on the ground below.

I was in my most comfortable chair, with old Jacob washing the cut on my head, and the inspector's nimble fingers twisting a bandage before I quite realized that I had escaped that great explosion. Vaguely, as in a dream, I remembered that two men, presumably Peace and the sergeant, had dragged me to my feet, had knotted a handkerchief round my head, and finally lifted me into a passing cab—all with a mad haste as if it were we who had been the criminals. Anyhow, I was at home, which was of the first importance to me at the moment.

"What blew up, Inspector?" I asked, faintly.

"The dynamite hidden in the bust—but don't ask questions."

"Oh, I'm all right," I told him. "Do explain things."

"I'll call tomorrow, and—"

"No, tell me now, or I shall not sleep a wink."

He looked at me a moment, with his head cocked on one side after his quaint fashion.

"Very well," he said at last. "I'll talk, if you'll promise to keep quiet."

I promised, and he began.

"It's quite a simple story. Nicolin had got word that an attempt was to be made on the Czar, who is due in Paris the day after tomorrow, and that Amaroff was engineering the whole affair; also the Russian was making no headway, and he knew that his position was at stake if he failed. So he got desperate, and took the game into his own hands. He forced Greatman to fix a rendezvous, brought up his men and strangled Amaroff in the sanded parlor. It was a smart thing to do, for no one was likely to suspect them, especially as he gave out that Amaroff was one of his own officers."

"But how did you locate the place where the murder occurred?" I asked feebly.

"It was raining last night—do you remember?"

"Yes."

"When I first arrived at the mortuary, I went over Amaroff's clothing. On the soles of his boots was a patch of dry sand. Therefore he could not have walked through the wet streets to the spot where he was found. Also the sand must have been on the floor where he last stood. On the back of his coat was a slimy smear mixed with the scales of mackerel. If my first proposition was correct, he must have been carried from the place with the sanded floor; and the suggestion was that a fish barrow had been used, a fish barrow such as you may see in the London costers pushing before them in their street sales. It was not likely that the men implicated would have risked carrying him further than was necessary. That limited the radius of the search. Indeed, we located the club in under three hours."

"Of course it seems quite easy," I told him. "But when did you first suspect that Nicolin was lying?"

"His search of the studio was simply a blind," he said. "I soon caught on to that. Also in Amaroff's little bedroom stood his luggage ready packed. He was just off on a journey—that was plain. Nicolin had said nothing about a journey, which was in itself suspicious. I knew the Russian."

"I believe that Hendry often gained considerable notoriety in the servants' hall by a boasted friendship with Peace. To this I attribute the fact of his being consulted by Mr. Heavittree's butler on the occasion of the burglary that took place while I was staying at Crandon. Hendry's ludicrous flimsy, which nearly resulted in a law-suit for false imprisonment, need not be narrated here, though it was considered a remarkably good joke against me at the time."

Towards the end of December I returned to London for a few days, and on the third night after my arrival I decided to visit the inspector. Hendry had discovered that he was a bachelor, and lived in two little rooms on the third floor. The floors that separated us were let out as offices, so that Peace at the top and I at the bottom had the old house to ourselves after seven o'clock.

The little man was at home, and seemed pleased to see me. With his sparrow-like agility he hopped about, producing glasses and a bottle of whisky. Finally, with our pipes in full blast, we sat facing each other across the fire, and soon dropped into a conversation which to me, at least, was of unusual interest. A very curious knowledge of London and its peoples had Inspector Addington Peace.

"An hour quickly slipped by, and when I rose to go I asked him if he would dine with me on my return from Cloudsdown in Norfolk, where I was spending Christmas. He would be pleased, he told me; and then, as he stooped to light a spill in the coal-

"You stay with Baron Steen, I suppose?" he asked.

"Yes."

"And why?"

"Why?" I echoed in some surprise.

"You have relatives or other friends?"

"My nearest relative is a sour old uncle in Bradford, who calls me hard names for using the gift Providence gave me instead of adding up figures in a smoky office. As for friends—well, I am a fairly rich man, Inspector, and, as such, have many friends. What is there against Baron Steen?"

"Oh, nothing," he said, puffing at his pipe, so that he spoke as from a cloud, mistily.

"I know that he has played a bold game on the stock exchange," I continued, "and there may be a few outwitted financiers growling at his heels. But it would be hard to find a more thoughtful host. Yes, I am going to Cloudsdown tomorrow."

We shook hands warmly on parting, and as I descended the stairs he leant over the rail, smiling down upon me.

"Remember your dinner engagement," I called up to him. "I shall see you after the New Year."

"Yes, if not before," he said; and I seemed to catch the faint echo of a laugh as I turned the corner.

It was on the afternoon of December 24 that I stepped from the train at the little station of Cloudsdown. Fresh snow had fallen, and the wind came bitterly over the frozen levels of the fen country. A distant clock was striking four as the carriage passed into the crested entrance-gates and tugged up a rising slope of park land dotted with ragged oaks and storm-battered spinneys, which showed as black stains upon its snow-clad undulations. At the summit the road bent sharply, and I saw below me the old manor of Cloudsdown, beyond which a somber plain, losing itself in the evening mists that swathed the horizon—stretched the restless waters of the North sea.

The house lay in a broad depression, in shape as the hollow of a hand, save only on the seaward side, where the line of cliff bit into it like the grip of a giant's teeth. The gray front looked up, across a slope of grass land, to a semi-circle of forest that swept away in dark shadings of fir and oak. From the long oblong of the main buildings were thrust back two wings, flanked on the nearer side by a chapel.

From the back of the house to the edge of the sea cliffs, a distance of some quarter of a mile, ran an irregular avenue of firs with clipped yew walks and laurel-edged flower gardens on either hand.

A dozen men sweeping the paths and a telegraph boy on a pony mounting the hill towards the drifts of snow.

My bachelor host was absent when I was ushered into the great central hall where the house-party were met together for their tea. I am by nature shy of strangers, taken in large doses, and it was with relief that I recognized Jack Talmán, the grizzled cynic of an Academician, sitting in a corner seat well out of reach of draughts and female conversation. "Hello, Phillips," he welcomed me. "And what financial gale brings you here?"

"What do you mean?"

"Don't put on frills with me. I've come to paint old Steen's picture, if he will give me the fifteen hundred that I'm asking for it. Lord Tommy Retford yonder is here to unload some of his old furniture—you know Tommy's rooms in Piccadilly, don't you? Furnished by a dealer in Bond street, and 25 per cent. commission to Tommy on everything he can sell out of them. That's Mrs. Talbot Singly talking to him. 'Pretty woman, got into trouble in New York, was cut by all America, and captured Singly and London society at one blow. Scandal never does cross the Atlantic somehow—all the dirty linen gets washed in the herring-pond. That's old Lord Blane by the fire; very respectable, and lends money on the sly. 'Private gentleman will make advances on note of hand—you know. Fine woman, Mrs. Billy Blades—that's she on the sofa. She's been making desperate love to Steen, but no go. The gay old dog's too clever for her. That long chap's her husband. Watch him prowling round, looking to see if he can pouch a silver ashtray or something, I expect. By Jove, Phillips, but it's as good as a play, ain't it?"

"And this is London society?" I exclaimed.

"No," he chuckled, shaking with vast amusement. "No, man; no. It's the Smart Set, that advertised, criticized, glorious, needy brigade of rogues and vagabonds—the Smart Set. Bless 'em all, say it; they're the best of company, but it's as well to lock up your valuables before you become too intimate with them."

I finished off my tea while old Talmán sucked at his cigarette in great contentment.

Must Be Native Breed.

It has been found in Andalusia that on hard trips the only saddle horses surviving extreme hardship and lack of food are the Spanish; the imported horses all succumb.

Element of Decay.

Indirect influence had its nearly perfect work in the Persian empire, where the Queen Mother was permitted to exercise an injurious influence over the king, the court, and the empire. It was one of the tendencies which leads Sarce, the historian, to say, after touching upon it: "In short, the empire contained within it from the first all the elements of decay."

Climbing for Cats.

A boy in northern Michigan was out hunting and saw two cats up a tree. The family needed a pussy about, and so he laid down his gun and took a climb. What he didn't know until too late was that the animals were wild-cats. Before he could lay hold of the cats they laid hold of him, and the doctor who attended his hurts counted up 41 bites and scratches. In hunting for cats be careful that you don't get the wrong breed.

Effective Home Remedy for Tuberculosis

It is a serious matter when the lungs are affected. A trip away or to a sanatorium is not only expensive, but it involves separation from home and friends. Some are benefited, but few can safely return. Eckman's Alternative is effective for home treatment. For example: 231 S. Atlantic Ave., Haddonfield, N. J. "Gentlemen: In the fall of 1905 I contracted a very severe cold, which settled on my lungs. At last I began to raise spasm, and my physician then told me I must go to California immediately. At this time I was advised to take Eckman's Alternative. I stayed at home and commenced taking it the last week in October. I began to improve, and the first week in January, 1906, I resumed my regular occupation, having gained 25 pounds, fully restored to health. It is now five years since my recovery has been effected, and I cannot praise Eckman's Alternative too highly. I have recommended it with excellent results."

(Signed) W. M. TATEM.

Eckman's Alternative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. Ask for bottles telling of recoveries, and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa. for more evidence. This book also contains 32 pages of the latest United States Census, which cost our government millions of dollars to prepare. In addition to the 1910 Census are given the 1890 and 1900 figures for comparison. These latest Census figures cover all the States and Territories, as well as the States by Counties, and also the population of the principal cities of the United States. These figures are of inestimable value to every one who is interested in the progress of this great country.

Keeps Your Stove "Always Ready for Company"

A bright, clean, glossy stove is the joy and pride of every housekeeper. But it is hard to keep a stove nice and shiny—unless Black Silk Stove Polish is used.

Here is the reason: Black Silk Stove Polish sticks right to the iron. It doesn't rub off or dust off. Its shine lasts four times longer than the shine of any other polish. You only need to polish once, and your stove will be cleaner, brighter and better looking than it has been since you first bought it. Use on your parlor stove, kitchen stove or gas stove. Get a can from your hardware or stove dealer. If you do not find it better than any other stove polish you have ever used before, your dealer is authorized to refund your money. But we feel sure you will agree with the thousands of other up-to-date women who are now using Black Silk Stove Polish and who say it is the "best stove polish ever made."

BLACK SILK STOVE POLISH

LIQUID OR PASTE ONE QUALITY

Be sure to get the genuine. Black Silk Stove Polish costs you no more than the ordinary kind. Keep your grates, registers, fenders and stove pipes bright and free from rusting by using BLACK SILK AIR-DRYING ENAMEL. Brush with each can of enamel only.

Use BLACK SILK METAL POLISH for silverware, nickel, tinware or brass. It works quickly, easily, and leaves a brilliant surface. It has no equal for use on automobiles.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

Take no risks, the chances are against you. The best way is to be cautious and use your good judgment on all the enterprises. Traveling may be unfortunate for you.

Those born today will be enthusiastic workers but will lack executive ability. Unless a good early training gives them the necessary poise they should seek alliance with others, rather than depend on themselves.

Relics of Roman Legion.

In the course of recent excavations at Chester, Eng., for the extension of a local hospital, the skeletons of 18 soldiers of the 20th Roman Legion, which once occupied Chester, were found, interred, with their heads toward the north. Roman pottery, bottles, files and sandals were also found, many of these relics being in a state of perfect preservation.

Why we're here we but foster from the road, Caloused by the sordid grind, most every heart in time is chilled; "let the devil take the hindmost," is our motto, hourly shrilled. Now as in the days of yore most selfish longings fill each mind, and the devil gets the foremost just as well as those behind. We were placed upon this planet for a life serene and broad, and we cannot rightly man it till our arctic souls are thawed.

Many Fish Were Blind.

More than 17,000 yellowtail were caught by Japanese fishermen at the long wharf recently. This is the largest catch for one day's fishing ever recorded in the bay district. Among the fishy specimens were several deep sea fish, which, when brought to the surface, were found to be totally blind.—Los Angeles Tribune.

$80,000,000.00 Lost Annually by Wage Earners.

Dr. Sadler estimates that about $80,000,000.00 in wages is lost annually to the American people as a direct result of colds. Lost time means lost wages and doctoring is expensive. Use Foley's Honey and Tar Compound promptly. It will stop the cough, and heal and soothe the sore and inflamed air passages. Cure your common colds quickly, and prevent their developing into more serious conditions. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound contains no opiates. Is safe for children.
